With the information at hand at present, there are fortunately no personal tragedies to report from among our employees and their families. The cellars suffered no impact except for the Nueva Aurora cellar in Ovalle which had some damage that was handled quickly and has the full cooperation of its personnel.

Based on information provided by the authority, we understand that the ports of San Antonio and Valparaíso are working normally, so the company's operations will not be affected.

Viña Concha y Toro sends a message of solidarity to those in Chile who were affected, especially in the 4th Region.
